Air is a mixture of many gases. It contains about 78% nitrogen, 21% oxygen and 1% other gases. Animals need to breathe in air in order to get oxygen. Oxygen burns the food within their body and releases energy for various activities. Water animals derive oxygen from water.

Next, Rantideva heard a dog barking; the poor beast seemed to be starving. Rantideva gave him what was left. Last of all came a pariah who stopped at the hermit's door and asked for help. Rantideva gave him the milk and the sugar, and continued to fast.

Suddenly, four gods stood in front of Rantideva. "It was to us, Rantideva, that you gave food, for we assumed the forms of a Brahmin, a Sudra, a dog and a poor outcast. You were good to us all and we praise you for your loving thoughts."
